DENTAL CLEANING AND POLISHING RELEASE FORM

- Dental care is a very important part of your pet's well being. Dental disease can lead to bacterial infections that will damage the heart, liver, etc. These types of infections can be prevented by having your pet's teeth cleaned, which is why you are here today.
- Your pet's teeth may have been examined prior to today by one of our veterinarians or registered technicians. While under anesthesia, a complete oral exam will be performed. It is only during this time that your veterinarian will be able to determine if any extractions are necessary. Please note that extractions are an additional charge to the cost of the dental cleaning.
- Our veterinarians will remove any teeth today that are necessary to keep your pet in the best health possible. Though we attempt to give you an accurate estimate for the procedure, there are times we find additional extractions are needed that we were not aware of prior to sedation. Your pet's health is of the utmost importance to us, so if the veterinarian feels it is in the best interest of your pet's health to remove teeth, then he or she will do so.
- Please sign below that you have read and understand the above statements.
